

HENRY YAMBA KAMARA

Henry is an accomplished professional providing leadership in managing business organisations and trade support institutions for over 15 years, through building on a foundation of human and capital assets in both the public and private sector. He is currently the Team Leader for the Sierra Leone Agribusiness Development Fund and has worked as Managing Director of the Sierra Leone Produce Marketing Company, and as Director of Export Development of the Sierra Leone Investment and Export Promotion Agency (SLIEPA).

Henry has established a reputation as an Agribusiness and Value Chain Expert, with a demonstrated knowledge of working with smallholder farmers using appropriate financing approaches and the establishment of out grower initiatives. He has the capability of managing complex supply chains through the application of an inclusive business model and market systems development; sourcing multiple soft commodities such as cocoa, coffee, oil palm, rice for local and export market. Henry is always thrilled to working on programs and initiatives such as Fairtrade, UTZ & Organic, ESMS and RSPO Certification Systems that can contribute to building a sustainable agribusiness industry in Africa.

He holds postgraduate degrees from the Leicester University; Liverpool John Moores University United Kingdom and an Executive Education from Harvard University with a concentration in Quality Management and the Practice of Trade Policy.
